PLANS FOR NEW FIREHOUSE ARE GIVEN OKEH

PLANS for a new fire house to cost $16,000 were accepted by the city council at its meeting Wednesday evening, and Mayor James Thoburn was authorized to make application for a WPA grant to cover approximately 60 per cent of the building cost. The drawings, prepared by Architect Milton Latham, were carefully examined and heartily approved. His sketch of the exterior was pronounced admirably in keeping with the best of Carmel architecture. This drawing will be presented by the architect to the volunteer fire department.

Fire Commissioner Rowntree and Mr. Latham have been at work for many weeks, drawing up a definite plan, complete to the last financial estimate, before presenting it for approval of the council. They have conferred frequently with WPA officials, in order to secure accurate information as to requirements for grants under the new set-up.

As explained by Mr. Rowntree, the lot chosen for the fire house, on Sixth near San Carlos, may be purchased for $3800. The building, excluding furniture and possibly some equipment, will cost $16,000. A study of WPA requirements has showed that a grant of $9,046 may be asked, leaving Carmel's share at $6,255. Mr. Rowntree proposed a bond issue of $12,000; $3,800 for the lot, $6,255 for the building, and $1,945 for contingencies; furniture, equipment, and a margin in case of a rise in building costs.

Pending preparation of the application and its acceptance by WPA no further steps can be taken. When it is known that the grant will be made, steps will be taken to call a bond election.

At the request of Councilman John Catlin, chairman of the committee studying the opening of Junipero street, Councilman Joseph Burge as street commissioner was authorized to employ the county surveyor to recommend a grade for Junipero from its north end south to the city limits. Mr. Catlin expressed the opinion that opening the south end to connect with a county road for better ingress to the village, as suggested by the county planning commisison, will be difficult and costly, but that opening the north end would cost a total of $10,934, of which, as a WPA project, Carmel would be required to pay only $2430.

City Attorney Argyll Campbell was instructed to file an action against M. J. Murphy, Inc., jointly with Jack Ball to collect a delinquent fee for connection with the city sewer. Two other connections from outside the city limits for which it was said no payment had been received were reported upon. Forest Lodge was extended a period of grace, allowing the present owner to communicate with the former owner, and Community Hospital, it was said, has expressed its intention to pay the charge.

Annual Teachers' Institute to Open Tuesday; Sessions In Carmel

EDUCATORS of Monterey Peninsula will be hosts to hundreds of teachers next week, at the annual Teachers' Institute for the counties of Monterey, San Benito, Santa Cruz and San Luis Obispo. General sessions will be held in Monterey and Pacific Grove, and three group sessions will be held in Carmel. Tuesday morning Otto W. Bardarson will be guest of honor at a 7 o'clock breakfast at La Playa Hotel, given by the elementary principals' association, of which he is president. Deans of girls will meet for luncheon at Pine Inn Tuesday noon, and music teachers will hold a dinner meeting that eveing at Normandie Inn.

"Progressing American Education is Patriotism in Practise," is the general theme of the institute, which will continue Monday through Wednesday, followed by the two-day Thanksgiving holiday. Speakers at the Monday morning sessison will be John A. Sexson, president of the California Teachers' Association and Pasadena superintendent of schools, and Charles M. Dennis, who will speak on "Music in a Machine Age." He is director of music in the San Francisco public schools.

Late in the morning the four counties will hold separate institutes on matters of local concern. Elementary and secondard assemblies will be held Monday afternoon, speakers for the former being Helen Heffernan, chief of the division of elementary education and rural schools, of the state department of education, and William G. Campbell, assistant professor of education, U. S. C., speaking on "The Effects of Failure on Character." At the secondary assembly G. Marston Haddock, specialist in voice production for speech and singing will give a recital on "England's Song Heritage" and Dr. Aubrey Douglass, chief of the division of secondary education, will be the speaker. A reception and dance will be held Monday evening.

The department of classroom teachers will hold a general session Tuesday morning, and at the afternoon general session the speaker will be Cameron Beck, personnel director of the New York Stock Exchange. Tuesday evening will be devoted to entertainment. Wednesday morning will be devoted to many departmental sessions, and the closing general session, Wednesday afternoon will have as the main speaker Louise Pinkney Sooy, associate professor of fine arts, U. C. L. A., her topic, "Clothes Make the Man."

On the general institute committee of arrangements are two Carmelites, Mr. Bardarson, and Harold Nielsen of the Business Association. Miss Gertrude Rendtorff and R. J. Gale are members of the committee on information and publicity. Miss Madeline Currey is on the committee to provide music. Miss Anna Marie Baer is to be the speaker at the session on social studies at the junior high school level and is on the committee of exhibits.

Boy Scout Court of Honor Tonight

Simplicity will mark the Boy Scout court of honor to be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Boy Scout House. Otto W. Bardarson is the chairman in charge of arrangements.

Flag bearers will bring in the flag, followed by the pledge to the flag, and selected Scouts will give the Scout oath and read the Scout laws. Martin Artellan will play two accordian solos, "In a Little Gypsy Tearoom" and "Sharpshooters' March." A talk and demonstration of cartooning will be given by Billy Frolli.

Speaker of the evening will be Al Young, Scout executive, whose topic will be "Adventures in Scouting."

In Troop 39, the following Scouts will be advanced: Frankie Hayford, John Tait and George Crossman from tenderfoot to second class; Merle Dorsett will receive eight merit badges and Bob Rand, one. In Troop 36 Bob Farley and George Wishart will advance from tenderfoot to second class; Bud Brownell, Pat Crichton, Jerry Neikirk and Homer Levinson, from second class to first class. Merit awards will be made to Freer Gottfried for public health, personal health, swimming, woodwork and pathfinding; to Jerry Neikirk for public health, carpentry, first aid, safety and personal health; Earle Dorrance for first aid and pathfinding; and Pat Crichton for first aid.

Carmel's Best Cooks to Contribute To Orchestra Food Sale Tomorrow

ABOUT 50 persons, among them Carmel's best cooks, have promised donations for the orchestra benefit cooked food sale which will be held all day tomorrow at the Carmel Garage on Ocean avenue. Late today the offerings were to arrive at the Denny-Watrous Gallery, with additional contributions to be delivered tomorrow at the scene of the sale. A veritable bazaar of Thanksgiving goodies will be the result. Food sales in Carmel have a way of being sensationally successful, because there are so many good cooks here and because the public response is ready and enthusiastic. Everyone is helping with the village's pet project, the Community Orchestra, which fosters the talents of so many musicians, but is hampered by a slim treasury. It is expected that by the food sale enough money will be realized to provide for the purchase of music and other necessary expense until the end of this season.

Those who have not been asked to help by manufacturing tomorrow's stock-in-trade will have their opportunity to help by buying. The Carmel garage, being close to the post office, will be in the path of villagers going for the 11 o'clock mail, and a complete luncheon may be assembled from the food sale tables. Or the foods displayed will offer a substantial start on Saturday's dinner, or a special treat for Sunday.

Besides delicious cakes, pies and cookies, there will be many special dishes such as cold ham, lamb and meat loaf, spaghetti, macaroni and baked beans, and various salads. A turkey, cooked and ready to serve, is a special donation of which the orchestra advisory board is particularly proud.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Stearns is general chairman in charge of the sale, assisted by numerous sub-committees.

Turkey Shoot at Range on Sunday

Carmel's own first turkey shoot, and appropriately a little different, is planned for the common or garden variety of marksman rather than for the sharp-shooter, according to Dave Ball, who handles the Pistol club's public relations. The Pistol club is sponsoring the shoot, which will be held at the Hatton Fields range Sunday, from 9 o'clock on, and if the Pistol club makes any money from the event, it will be gratifying, but unexpected. Mostly, they want everyone to come out and have a good time; such a good time, they hope, that a turkey shoot will become an annual tradition.

NEGRO CARVES CADDIES

Continued until Thursday was the preliminary hearing of an assault charge against Homer Spann, Negro, in Judge Ray Baugh's justice court Wednesday. Spann was to answer for the alleged stabbing of Forrest Sweetland and George Westcott Monday morning at the Pebble Beach golf course where all three were employed as caddies.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Carmel, will hold its usual Thanksgiving Day service at 11 o'clock a. m. The Golden text from Psalms, 50:14, is "Offer unto God Thanksgiving and pay thou vows unto the most High."

Orville Rogers of San Jose State Teachers' college is putting in his six weeks' period of practice teaching at Sunset school.

After a period of illness, Haskell Warren, one of the custodians at Sunset school, has returned to his duties.

Red Cross Over Top In Roll Call With Total of $3008 Contributed

RED CROSS reached its quota of $3000 Wednesday evening and there was great elation among the workers assembled at headquarters. All reports are not yet in and the campaign will continue until Saturday in order to give all interested in this great humanitarian effort an opportunity to subscribe to the fund for local relief.

Mrs. Karl Rendtorff, chairman of Red Cross chapter, expressed pleasure at the result of the financial effort and said:

"We are greatly indebted to Mrs. Herbert John Morse and her workers for making the campaign such a splendid success. Mrs. Morse has been untiring in directing the work of solicitation and Carmel owes her a debt of gratitude, as well as the loyal group that have given their services for Red Cross."

The results of the campaign to date by districts follows: Memberships, 450. District No. 1, $383.50; No. 2, $344; No. 3, $134.50; No. 4, $67.75; No. 5, $219.50; No. 6, $36.50; No. 7, $75; No. 8, $40; No. 9, $32; No. 10, $66; No. 11, $171; Pebble Beach, $595; Carmel Highlands, $281; Carmel Valley, $153.50; business district, $409; grand total, $3,008.25.

Reports from various sections of the state indicate that there is a deep interest in the national program of Red Cross and that the Pacific area will reach its quota of 600,000 members.

Every dollar subscribed will be utilized locally for much needed family relief, milk fund, hospitalization and medication.

Mrs. Retta Calhoun Now With Holman's

Welcome news to the peninsula woman who has had difficulty in securing proper advice on corsets and how to use them, is the announcement that Mrs. Retta Calhoun, graduate corsietierre is now in charge of the corset department of Holman's department store.

Mrs. Calhoun was formerly connected with the well known Arbach's of Salt Lake City, and is fitted by education and experience to advise individuals of every type and form, it is said.

Not only will Mrs. Calhoun advise on corsets for every day usage, but she is also expertly versed on the use and fitting of surgical corsets.

She will be found at Holman's Corset Department at any hour of the working day.

GLADYS STEELE COMING TO GALLERY NEXT WEEK

Gladys Steele will be presented by the Denny-Watrous Gallery on Saturday evening, Nov. 30. She makes you laugh; she makes you cry; she makes you lean forward in delighted and surprised enjoyment; above all she entertains you completely while you are hearing songs "tossed off" by a voice of lyric, bird-like sweetness, always true, always fluidly easy, as though to sing a song were the most natural way of carrying on a conversation or telling a story.

Dame Rumor Slapped Down Anent Landscaping Plans at Point Lobos

OUR Rumor Exploding department has done considerable research this week on what was reported to us as a project to convert Point Lobos into something resembling hotel gardens on a large scale. We can say right here at the start that it is all a myth, and those who have been worrying about it can rest easy. Starting with the people who brought the rumor to us, we traced the story back and back and back, and finally ended up in Pacific Grove. It seems that a lady whose name we did not learn was out at Point Lobos recently, and talked to a man who was working out there. He told her something of the scientific study which has been going on under the auspices of the Save the Redwoods League, with a view not to "landscaping" the park, but to preserving the status quo.

As such stories will, this story changed as it passed from lip to lip, and came to us in a pretty garbled state. It was to the effect that a $50,000 appropriation had been made for "landscaping" the park, and that the former head gardener of the White House was en route here to supervise the work of destroying nature's handiwork.

Our contact at the park is George Vaughn, who has been in residence out there for a year and a half, studying and preparing a report on what steps to take, or avoid taking, to preserve the wild, natural beauty of Point Lobos. We went out and asked him if there had been, or was contemplated, any change in the present program, which was presented in a story in The Pine Cone last July.

He assured us that no artificial landscaping has at any time been contemplated. He only wished that the $50,000 appropriation was true; their funds, $10,000 for research, came from the Carnegie Institute, and have been nearly used up. The White House angle, he thought, probably came from the fact that Frederick Law Olmstead, the landscape engineer by whom he is employed, and who assigned him to his present job at the park, has also, among other major commissions, done some engineering in connection with the White House grounds. There is considerable difference between these two jobs; the Olmstead firm is big enough and flexible enough to recognize the difference.

The only bit of new information Mr. Vaughn was able to give was that 10 or 15 CCC men are to do a little trail repairing and other clean-up work, merely to obliterate some of the signs of human use. "Protection is the keynote," he said. "Our policy is, if in doubt, don't do anything." Which is the same as letting nature take its course.

Plan Holiday Fetes at Robles Del Rio

A number of special features are planned at Robles Del Rio for the coming holiday season, according to Robert Salzberger, manager.

Thanksgiving is being given special attention just now, he says, and plans are going forward to make the celebration at Robles Del Rio something to really be thankful for.

The riding paths are in excellent shape, and the tap room and dining room will supply the finest of food and refreshment, it is said.

There is dancing now every Saturday night, and a very special party is planned for Thanksgiving day. But because of the early reservations pouring in, Mr. Salzberger urges that all who plan to have dinner, noon or night, make reservations at once.

Tariff and World Peace, Speaker's Topic

Tariff and world peace was discussed by the international cooperation study group of the League of Women Voters in session Wednesday afternoon at Mission Inn. Mrs. Russell Scott is the chairman.

The League's executive board will meet next Tuesday morning, Nov. 26, at Mission Inn, to make plans for the coming month. In the afternoon at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Howard Walters' study group, government and its operation, will present a detailed analysis of county government, with reports from various county departments. This will be the last of the League's activities for the month of November.

Monterey to Meet Hollister Gridders

Steadily improving as the football season rolls on, the Monterey Townies are ready for their return battle with Hollister Sunday at the Monterey ball park. The kickoff is slated for 2 p. m.

Hollister defeated Monterey several weeks ago when the Townies journeyed to the San Benito county seat for a hard-fought game.

Although the local team plays under the Monterey colors, a large portion of the squad is composed of Carmel men. The team is coached by Hal Youngman of the Monterey Union high school.

MRS. BONHAM RECOVERED

Mrs. Ross Bonham is "back on the job" at the family hardware store after taking three weeks off on account of a broken rib. A fall was the cause of the injury.

Youngsters View New Book Exhibit

Children's Book Week, observed at Carmel library by posters, displays and tables of new books, has brought swarms of young visitors to the library this week, announced Miss Elizabeth Niles, the librarian, and a considerable number of grown-up ones as well. Miss Niles remembered parents and others interested in children and their reading in planning for Book Week.

"Present Conditions In Europe" Next Carmel Forum Lecture Topic

DURING the first week in December, the exact date to be announced next week, Carmel Forum will present the second of its series of monthly lectures. Raymond G. Gettell, U. C. professor of political science, will speak on "Present Conditions in Europe," and he will continue to collect material for his talk up to the eve of the lecture, so rapidly are events moving abroad.

Forum members attending the Monday evening study session at Sunset school were asked to vote for six out of 17 University of California and Stanford professors whom they would like to have included on the lecture series for the remainder of the year. The voting has not closed, and members who were absent from this week's session may obtain ballots from the chairman, Dr. F. W. Haasis. No Monday night session will be held next week.

The prospective U. C. speakers and their subjects are: Robert J. Korner, professor of modern European history. "New Currents in Present-Day Europe" or "America's Place in the World"; Carl Landauer, economics lecturer, "Economic Planning: Its Necessity, Technique and Pre-suppositions" or "The Crisis of Democracy"; George Morgan, assemblyman, "Taxes or Death"; N. Wing Mah, assistant professor of political science, "World Politics in the Far East" or "The Challenge of Japan and the Peace of the Pacific"; Samuel C. May, professor of political science, "Recent Trends in Government" or "An Evaluation of the New Deal"; Frederic L. Paxson, professor of history, "The American Philosophy" or "The Panic in American Life"; Max Radin, professor of law, "Crime and Criminals" or "Liberty and Regulation"; Royal A. Roberts, associate professor of economics, "The Responsibilities of Employer and Employe in Management" or "What Is Wrong with the Small Store?" Frank M. Russell, professor of political science, "The Challenge of Fascism and Communism to Democracy" or "The New Deal in Latin America"; Sidney Kinnear Smith, neuropsychiatrist, "Youth and the Spirit of the Times" or "Bad Brains and Bad Business."

From Stanford the following have been suggested: Prof. Ralph H. Lutz, "World War and International Propaganda" or "Democracies and Dictatorships"; Prof. Thomas A. Bailey, "Is Democracy Doomed?" or "Abraham Lincoln, a Study in Contrasts"; Prof. Henry Fisher, "America and Russia" or "Communism: Its Objectives and Tactics"; William M. Proctor, "Which Means the Most to You, Your Father's IQ or his Bank Account" or "Adult Education: Can You Teach an Old Dog New Tricks?" Graham Stuart, "League of Nations" or "Current Affairs of Europe and Latin America"; Eliot Jones, "The Outlook for the Public Utilities" or "The New Deal"; B. F. Haley, "Old Age Pension Plans" or "Economic Nationalism as an Obstacle to Peace and Prosperity."

Norwegians Sing Sunday Matinee

The Norwegian Singing Society of San Francisco, with Frijof Turnquist directing between 35 and 40 male voices, will give a concert of Scandinavian music in the Denny-Watrous Gallery this Sunday afternoon, Nov. 24, at 2:30 o'clock. The hour has been set up from the originally announced 3 o'clock, as the Norwegians come down by special bus, and leave directly after the concert.

Assisting artist is Henrik Gjerdrum, Norwegian pianist of San Francisco, who will play one group of piano solos by Scandinavian composers.

The program will include "Sangerhilsen," by Grieg; "Hav", by Oscar Borg; "Ved Tjernet" by Ekhaugen; "Olav Trygvason," by Reissiger; 'Naar Fjordene Blaaner" by Paulsen, and a number of other spirited, ringing songs of the North.

MODERN DANCE ILLUSTRATED BY LECTURER

By THELMA B. MILLER

A GOOD many questions about the modern dance were left unanswered in Virginia Stewart's illustrated lecture on the Mary Wigman school at the Denny-Watrous Gallery Tuesday evening. Her material was first-hand and authentic, result of a careful attempt to understand and evaluate the newer dance ideas. Despite inherent faults of the small-film and silent motion pictures of Mary Wigman and her pupils, it was possible to get a fair comprehension of the characteristic movements of this type of dance; movements which we have been seeing in various programs. But as Miss Stewart said, due to the lack of standardization in this country, and the facility with which young dancers find opportunity to appear publicly, it is hard to tell which of them are good. As the fountainhead from which the modern dance sprang, it may be presumed that the Wigman dance pictures present a standard.

It is probably highly difficult to put into words the purposes and aspirations of the modern dancers. Miss Stewart's explanation gave little assurance of definite meaning or significance embodied in this dance school. Miss Wigman, as she put it, might come into her studio "with her whole being suffused with something she doesn't understand very well." The resulting dance composition, is, presumably her effort to put her emotions in a better state of order. The results are often puzzling to the innocent spectator. In fact, these emotions take such an abstract form that, despite the apparent wish of the dancers to convey a definite message to the beholders, it is dubious if any thought is conveyed unless a spoken or written explanation is included. And so the puzzled spectator may turn in relief to some exposition of dancing as an expert vaudeville "hoofer," whose intricate rhythms are not trying to "express" anything, but whose performance merely arouses a lively pleasure.

Carrying the dance of "mood" to the conclusion suggested in listening to Miss Stewart's talk, it would seem that such a dance should be given only once, at its moment of birth, becoming sheer improvisation. These are "one man" dances, she indicated, to be danced by the creator only, because they express her emotions only. Yet she added that considerable work is done in refining these spontaneous products, which should make it possible to perform them independent of "mood," and so why not by any dancer of sufficient technical proficiency?

The "group dances," she indicated, are composed by the group as a whole, and how can a group possibly share a common emotion to that extent? Would not the strongest personality in the group dominate the composition?

Mary Wigman's pupils are required to put in three years of study before they can even think of being professionals, Miss Stewart said; a period of stern training which she pronounced a new idea in dance study. This seems to fail to take account of the arduous training undergone by dancers of the Imperial Russian ballet.

Martha Graham, the outstanding exponent of the "new dance" in the U. S., Miss Stewart said, has a more cerebral approach that that of Mary Wigman, which is emotional. Since we are to see Martha Graham here this season, this assurance is something of a relief. For a rather definite impression was given that Miss Wigman does a good deal of her composing in a state of partial or complete unconsciousness, which raises the possibility of a doubt of the ultimate value of such compositions, to anyone but the creator.

"Victorianism" Returning

ENTHUSIASM for her subject, an appreciative wit and dramatic facility infused Miss Celia B. Seymour's reading of Lawrence Hausman's "Victoria Regina" at the Wednesday morning program of the Woman's club book section. Miss Seymour prefaced her recital with reminiscences of her own happy experiences in England, and she permitted herself a wicked chuckle that "mid-Victorianism," a term used as an epithet by a generation which is now growing to have more sense, may have its innings again. In art, manners and interests "Victorianism" appears, she thinks, to be again a definite influence.

Reading other volumes on Victoria to supplement the Hausman presentation, Miss Seymour had prepared herself to give a graphic character-picture of the queen who was first of all a devoted and loving wife and mother, to her people as well as to her own family circle; whose power if "negative" rather than dynamic, as was Elizabeth's, was nevertheless all-pervasive. If she was at times a trial to her ministers, they bore with her out of sheer affection, even if they could not alway agree with her policies.

Rather a sly minx was the Victoria presented by Miss Seymour in the opening dialogues of Hausman; humanly gratified at the arrival of the regal power which permitted her first of all to step gracefully from under her mother's thumb. Her romance with Albert, her worry over the pecadillos of "Bertie," Prince of Wales, the gratification of a tired old woman at the continued approval of her subjects, were presented in the scenes read vividly and sensitively by Miss Seymour.

Mrs. Margaret F. Grant will present the next book section program on Dec. 4, but has not yet announced the subject of her review.

Anna Marie Baer Will Conduct Session at Teachers' Institute

MISS ANNA MARIE BAER, art instructor and eighth grade teacher at Sunset school, will conduct the session devoted to the social studies at the junior high school level at the four-county Teachers' Institute to be held in Monterey and Pacific Grove next week. "Social Studies Curriculum by Those Who Administer It" is the theme, and sessions will be held at Pacific Grove high school Tuesday from 9 o'clock to 11, and Wednesday from 9 to 12.

In connection with the lecture and group discussion there will be an exhibit of art work and illustrative material done by Sunset school upper grade students, to supplement their study of history and geography. Text books and other reference material have been sent by various publishers especially for the session.

Currently much stress is being placed on a more enlightened method of handling that part of the school program which until recently was presented in isolated units as history, geography and civics; living matter which was too often "killed" by the method of presentation. The new educational theory is based on the conception that since American society is not static, education toward democracy is ineffective if it merely prepares "typical personalities for typical grooves in a fixed order." Rich and many-sided personalities equipped with practical knowledge and inspired by ideals is the objective of training in the social studies.

"Life itself, not factual material alone, must provide the subject matter in social studies," said Miss Baer. "Thought-provoking problems must be solved, not mere memorization of isolated fact; emotional attitudes must be formed, rather than accepted dogma fixed.

"Since individuals learn primarily through life experiences, education is most effective when abstract thinking is supplanted by actual experience. An enriched program uses as its starting point what the immediate environment provides, progressing from there to any situation of vital interest."

Through a lecture which will define underlying principles, and objectives, and through consideration of effective method and procedure, Miss Baer hopes to give those who attend the social studies session a fresh insight into the splendid opportunity present in the teaching of history, geography and civics, for developing "rich, many-sided personality," the final result of which must be efficient citizenship.

"WOMEN UNDER SOUTHERN CROSS" MISSIONARY TOPIC

Meeting at the home of Mrs. Vera Peck Millis on San Antonio near Ninth, Carmel Missionary Society will hold its regular monthly session next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Miss Mary Barnes will speak on "Women Under the Southern Cross" and Mrs. Stella Stafford Mather will interpret life in South America from her own observations. A travelogue written by Miss Katharine Pettit will be read.

Firm Peace Stand Taken by P-T. A.

The board of managers of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers at its regular bi-monthly meeting in San Francisco reaffirmed its stand for peace and sent a copy of the 1935 resolution to the President of the United States. Members of the board also sent individual expressions to the president.

The resolution, adopted at the recent state convention in San Diego is as follows: That, while recognizing the wisdom of preparedness for individuals and the nation, we stand for the principles that only in defense of our home and country should our nation ever participate in conflict, and that we do all in our power to avert war, and that profits from the trade in munitions be abolished.

"Realizing that the present neutrality law expires Feb. 29, 1936, parent-teacher members feel deeply the necessity of far-reaching legislation in this direction," said Mrs. C. H. Turner, state president, who presided through the two-day board session.

In addition the board adopted the recommendations of the legislation chairman, Mrs. P. D. Bevil of Sacramento, that parent-teacher units in California follow the suggestion of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers for study of the proposal for a permanent Court of International Justice; the reduction of armaments by mutual agreement; the Constitutional Amendment on war referendum; and taking the profits out of war.

Carmel Gifts Span Nation to Cheer Remote Southern Mountaineers

FRUIT of a year's work of several pair of patient, busy hands, and of not little ingenuity, disappeared into packing boxes here this week and was consigned to a mountain settlement house across the continent in Kentucky. Before the dozens of hand-made Christmas gifts were packed, the women who made them, Mrs. I. N. Ford, Mrs. Whitney Smith, Mrs. Alfred Wheldon, Mrs. Bigsby, Miss Agnes Ford and Miss Ginevra Peirce, had a small, private exhibit for a few of their friends, at the home of Mrs. Ford.

Making up of Christmas boxes for the Hindman Settlement, in Knott county, Kentucky, has been a project of Mrs. Ford's for the past ten years. The work has grown to such dimensions that during the past two years she has extended to a few others the privilege of helping. This is one of the famed settlements which has revived the old craft indusries, brought better education and living standards to the isolated southern mountain communities. This particular one was founded 30 years ago, at first for six weeks only, and was housed in a tent. It is 40 miles from the nearest railroad; mules are still the customary means of transportation. Classes were organized in cooking, sewing, music, reading and writing. With the help of interested friends all over the United States, the settlement has grown to such proportions that it now has its own 265-acre farm, for agricultural study, its own coal mine, and 20 buildings, housing schools, hospital, dormitories, and the "fireside industries" of weaving and furniture-making.

Doctors, dentists and nurses were introduced. Due to their efforts modern sanitation was gradually efected, and diseases long endemic have been eradicated, notably, pellagra. Talented children spotted in the elementary grades have been assisted to go to college. Miss Ruth Huntington of Carmel Point was formerly a teacher at this settlement.

Contents of the Christmas boxes packed here will probably be sent into remote, poverty-stricken districts touched by the influence of the flourishing Hindman settlment. The settlement has its own Christmas celebration, to which the people come from miles around. In old times, the object of Christmas parties "was for everyone to get as drunk as possible, even the little boys," as Mrs. Ford put it, but the party at the settlement these days is more in keeping with the traditional spirit of the day. But beyond the radius of the settlement are communities so destitute that their only Christmas cheer comes from the interest of such groups as that working here, brought to the attention of outsiders by the settlement, which has its hands full with its own people.

And so Mrs. Ford and her little circle have been sewing all year; making neckties for men, shoulder-knots and flowers, and dainty collars for the women and girls, pretty kitchen-aprons, dressing dolls, knitting baby-clothes, pasting up scrap-books for toddlers and recipe books for busy housewives, stringing beads, and making any number of other pretty and useful things. There are a few "boughten" articles, like jacks and marbles and games, but mostly the gifts represent hand work, and the use of bits of silk, velvet, cotton, from the scrap-bags of the workers and their friends. They even pieced some quilts, "for the teachers," as they are designated.

The pet of the circle was the "Ethiopian Princess," so labeled in order that she would not be mistaken for a "nigger baby" in the color-conscious south. She was very gorgeous in green velvet, and carried her head high in true royal haughtiness. Even the tiniest rubber dollie had a hand-made silk shirt; all the dolls had a complete change of costume from the skin out, and night attire as well.

My pet in the exhibit was a tiny cretonne-covered love-seat, complete with two cushions, which was not doll-furniture, as you would suspect, but a "housewife." The seat lifts up to disclose an assortment of needles, thread, and other notions. The mother who gets that in her Christmas stocking will have a hard time keeping it, if there are small girls in the family.

Carmel's Movie Actors To Stalk Across Filmarte Screen Tonight

By LELAND BARRY

"CAMERA — action. All extras stand by for direction!"

To all the local personages who remember those words (or similar ones) on a cold, blustery day on Point Lobos almost seven years ago, the varied bill at the Filmarte theater tonight and tomorrow will be of interest.

It was in January of 1929 that Carmel, and Point Lobos, were turned almost overnight into a veritable Hollywood. At that time, long location journeys away from the studio weren't considered such an item of expense as they are now. For, the movies hadn't yet learned to talk. They were just beginning to whimper and gurgle a bit, and a few talkers like the one with Al Jolson began to appear, but the movie still hadn't learned how to be really intelligent with words.

When Director Edwin Carrewe told his bosses at Inspiration Pictures in Hollywood that in order to properly produce the forthcoming Dolores Del Rio picture, they must move bag and baggage to Carmel, it was just like asking for another portion of apple pie. In those days nothing was thought of packing away for several months, building a complete block of sets, and generally uprooting the landscapes to reproduce desired locales. So away the company went, to Carmel.

The story "Evangeline" required a large number of extras, or super-luminaries, and so Director Carrewe, with his assistant brother, Wally Fox, scouted around Carmel for a day or so and evidently routed out about half of the gross population by the looks of the scenes previewed for the press at the Filmarte yesterday. Soldiers, laymen, women and children, all adorned with early New England costumes, danced and sang to music that was suggested, but not heard . . . for it was a silent picture, the last great silent picture made by either Carrewe or Miss Del Rio.

Through the courtesy of the Point Lobos Park, who own the print of 'Evangeline," Manager Richard Bare is presenting a few, unedited scenes of this great Carmel-made film to his audienee tonight and tomorrow as an added attraction to the current feature "Hooray for Love."

Many local people are recognizable in the film, and it is hoped by the management of the Filmarte, that all those who worked in it will be on hand to see themselves and their friends.

It also bears special mentioning, that the film which is to be shown are the scenes that the Carmel people went to see and did not.

It will be the premiere for the faces on the cutting room floor.

Max Morgenstern was down from San Francisco this week, staying at Pine Inn.

Many Reservations Already Made for "A Church Mouse," Dec. 6-7

RESERVATIONS for the New York comedy success, "A Church Mouse," to be produced by Carmel Community Players Dec. 6 and 7, are coming in rapidly. Prospects are good for sold-out houses both nights. Director Harriet Smith is subjecting cast and technicians to vigorous drilling, determined to give peninsula theater-goers a bang-up show.

The sets, far more elaborate than those called for in stock company productions, are entirely the creation of local designers, builders, artists, and technicians. All of the work is volunteered, and most of it is done by students who are being instructed in their jobs by Harriet Smith.

Audiences will marvel at the magnificent private office of a famous bank president, designed by Thom Neikirk. Lofty ceiling, tinted walls, ultra-modern treatment of windows, doors, hangings, and furniture made to order for this production by the SERA boys, provide a stunning interior.

Acts 2 and 3, designed by George McMenamin, portraying a Paris hotel suite, will be sumptuous with hand-carved Louise XVI furniture borrowed from interior decorators and private homes. Tapestries will be painted on damask covered panels and framed with a filagree of gold (gilded ropes from the ten-cent store!). Walls and ceiling are canvas-covered and elaborately painted.

Sets are already completed. Costumes and props will be on hand ten days before opening night, a record for a Carmel show. Exquisitely set and superbly cast, "A Church Mouse" promises to set a high mark for the local stage.

The plot of "A Church Mouse" is amusing and well knit with tense situations. The three principal characters, a Vienna bank president, the secretary he discharges and her successor, entangle themselves in complications that keep audiences alternately on the edges of their seats or shaking with laughter. That Frank Townsend, Althea Kendall, Anna Marie Baer in these roles will live up to expectations, is a foregone conclusion. Harriet Smith and her large staff of experienced back-stage workers are taking no chances.

To Present Work of Negro Composer

A unique evening of interesting music is announced by the Denny-Watrous Gallery for Saturday, Dec. 7, when works of William Grant Still, the most distinguished negro composer, will be featured.

Verna Arvey, concert pianist, will play piano works of the Afri-American; Nathan Emanuel, tenor of the Los Angeles Opera Company, will sing songs written by him, and Verna Arvey and Dale Arvey will play a two-piano arrangement of "Kaintuck," an orchestral work.

William Grant Still's music carries the racial flavor of rhythm and a vitality of humor and "jazz" that is typical of his race. He has been awarded many honors.

DELEGATE TO REPORT AT TOWNSEND CLUB MEET

At a meeting of the Townsend Club last Friday evening, plans were made for a card party to be given this evening at Manzanita Club, and it was voted to collect each month the dues made compulsory at the national convention. D. H. Price of Pacific Grove, who was a delegate to the convention, will give a report after the card party this evening.

Holiday Turkey to Be Heavier Bird, But Supply Short

The Thanksgiving and Christmas turkey is expected to be a bigger and heavier bird than was the case last year, but a smaller supply is indicated outside California at least. In the mountain states a decrease of 13 per cent from last year is looked for in the turkey crop, while the coast states are expected to show a 5 per cent decrease. Feed supplies in all sections are much larger than a year ago, explaining why there will be both more light meat and more dark meat on the holiday bird.

Maedchen In Uniform Booked at Filmarte

Said to be the most humanly realistic motion picture ever to come from the German studios, "Maedchen in Uniform" will play the Filmarte Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

Tonight and tomorrow the program includes Gene Raymond and Ann Sothern in "Hooray for Love," a charming musical film with the king of colored dancers, Bill Robinson.

Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday the Filmarte plays "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," Ronald Colman in the title role. Also on the bill is Charlie Chaplin in "The Fireman."

Johnny Campbell distinguished himself in the lineup for Stanford against Montana last Saturday when the Cards came out victorious.

Thanksgiving Day Not Exclusive U. S. Holiday; Canada Has It Too

WE'LL bet anytihng you suggest that most of you regard Thanksgiving Day as an exclusively American holiday. This doesn't count the many Carmelites who have lived in Canada, for they probably knew, though none of them ever told us, that our neighbor to the north celebrates an annual Thanksgiving, though in October rather than in November. Monday is their traditional day for turkey, instead of Thursday. This year, despite a good deal of protest, the Canadian Thanksgiving Day was postponed from Monday, Oct. 14, to Oct. 24, on account of the elections.

In the days when Egypt was at the height of her glory she set aside a period of feasting and thanksgiving for the harvest of the year. As early as 1800 B. C. it was universally honored by Egyptians, Jews, Greeks and Romans. Thanksgiving was not only held in gratitude for good crops, but it was often proclaimed when a war had been won. Plutarch relates a strange tale of the emperor who, to conceal his defeat ordered a thanksgiving, which was observed. Later, the facts were revealed and he excused himself on the grounds that he did not wish to deprive the people of a day of enjoyment. One of the greatest celebrations in Queen Elizabeth's reign was on Tuesday, Nov. 19, 1558, and was in commemoration of great victory over the "Invincible Armada."

In the early part of the 17th century it was the custom to have this holiday on Nov. 5 every year and this lasted for nearly two centuries. In 1833 the idea was abolished by British Parliament.

Not until 1578 did North America first begin to observe this holiday. The first observance was held at Newfoundland, the oldest British colony in the world. Shortly after Newfoundland's first celebration other parts of North America started to observe the day. In 1621 the Pilgrim Fathers of Plymouth, New England, held their first observance.

First recorded Thanksgiving Day to be held in Lower Canada (now Quebec) was on Jan. 10, 1799. The reason for this was "signal victory over our enemy, and for manifold and inestimable blessings which our kingdom and provinces have received and daily continue to receive." Ontario (then upper Canada) was next to take up festival and on June 18, 1816, they gave thanks for signalising end of war between Great Britain and France.

Thanksgiving today has changed very little from the ancient custom. In the primitive stages of this holiday it consisted of feasting, trials of endurance, races on land and water, exhibitions of skill, all spread over a period of several days.

Canada and the United States have previously tried to keep this holiday on the same day to enable travelers to spend the day with their families. Before 1906 the Canadian festival was held on a Thursday just the same as this year. Due to repeated protests from the travelers this holiday was eventually changed to a Monday.

Sunset Defeats Monterey Teams

Sunset boys won both basketball games last Friday afternoon in an exciting clash with two Monterey teams on the home grounds. The lightweight game was particularly thrilling, with Monterey leading 7-4 at the end of the first half, and increasing that lead in the third quarter. In the fourth quarter Miya Miyamoto and Alex Mayes went on a basket-shooting spree, swishing the ball through the net for an additional 12 points, and victory. The final score was 18-17. Forwards and centers were Mayes, Frolli, Miyamoto and De Ameral; guards, Jones, Villapando and Frolli.

In the heavyweight game the teams were on an even basis to the end of the first half, each having four scores. Sunset edged out during the second half, ending with a score of 10-8. Forwards were Jim Rand, George Crossman, Fred McIndoe and Tom Brown; center, Victor Candia; guards, Dick Crossman, Laurence Leidig; and Larry McLaren was acting captain.

This afternoon at 4 the local boys will play return matches with Oak Grove, whose heavyweight team won in the last encounter, lightweight victory going to Sunset.

Intramural basketball will be organized at Sunset soon, for all boys interested in grades four to eight. Boys now on the inter-school squad will not be eligible for intramural play.

GAME REFUGE UPHELD

Complaints continue to be registered by lovers of wild life of rather frequent violations of the law which has made the Monterey Peninsula a game refuge. Due to litigation regarding that law it may not be generally known that about a month ago it was upheld by a decision of the state supreme court. This removes all ambiguity surrounding it; it is illegal not only to shoot birds on this peninsula but even to carry a gun. As it is explained to us, an exception is made in the case of property owners, who may take up arms against a designated list of predatory animals; rodents, and a few others. Certain owls and hawks are on the "open" list, but due to the fact that other hawks and owls are accounted beneficial to man as rodent-slayers and so are protected, it is not considered well for amateur sportsmen to blaze away indiscriminately at these birds. Unless one of the mighty feathered slayers is caught in the act of robbing a poultry yard, he had better be given the benefit of the doubt.

It is reported that a few ducks are coming into the lagoon at the mouth of Carmel river, and a special warning is due that it is illegal to shoot these birds. Sportsmen are as eager as ornithologists to see this prohibition enforced, due to the nation-wide move to conserve the noble bird.

Children appear to be the most frequent violators of the game refuge. Again it must be pointed out that it is illegal even to carry a gun within a game refuge. No parent has a right to allow a child to possess a gun, unless he is prepared to oversee the child's use of that gun. The day is past when a boy can be turned loose to roam, pretending that he is still living in a pioneer era with inalienable right to shoot for self-protection or for the pot. Modern guns are too high powered to be trusted in the hands of boys. A party of golfers on the Pacific Grove links were rendered uneasy a few days ago by the activities of a group of boys in the vicinity, armed not with b-b guns, but with high-powered rifles. In that wide-open territory, a hapless golfer could easily be laid low by a bullet from such a gun, no matter how innocently aimed. A hunter's spent bullet in the east not long ago killed a little girl playing on the porch of her own home. This incident became nationally newsworthy because the child was a musical prodigy; many such incidents are not reported outside the locality in which they take place.

TEAR OFF THE ROOF

The idea of tearing the roof off Carmel Mission has been suggested, and with the money already donated to the restoration fund begin the construction of a new roof as planned.

While there are still insufficient funds available to replace the roof along the original plans, the idea might be a good one. No one would want to see the Mission stand during the rainy season without a roof and therefore there would be an incentive to augment the already growing fund.

Now that the step to raise the money has been made, it is a shame that the work cannot progress. By taking it step by step, using the money available, the greater part of the work could be done before the stormy weather sets in.

A German chemist has evolved pajamas made of wood. If Hitler tries them and gets splintered, the chemist may find himself in a wooden kimono.

PHILANDERER

A tender violet in a leafy dell
Gave all her fragrance to a passing breeze
A vagrant, wayward breeze that would not stay
His love to tell.

Swiftly he sped to sunny meadows where
A wild-rose red, with truly regal air
Touched by morning's beam in radiance grew,
He kissed but did not woo.

O' ruthless breeze! so skilled in lover's Art,
Not always can you break a flower's heart,
The lovely violet has another Spring,
The wild-rose to its road-side hedge will cling,
But you, a spendthrift of your vaunted powers
Are but a cloud-child, lost in April's showers.

—JOSEPHINE MILDRED BLANCH.

CARNALIA

(chant of the aging)

Before the stolid silence of the dark
Has dimmed and fused your fragrant memory
To quietness and to stupidity,
I shall go seeking after your lost spark.
For I have faith that I can yet retain
The curving quiet of your face and form,
Your searching voice of loveliness—your warm
And supple beauty in my aging brain.

Before my body seeks its lover Earth,
I'll seek again your misty-lidded eyes;
Wherever you have gone, whatever mirth
You're dreaming in—whatever lover lies
With you; forget them all for me, and soar
One Time again before the Nevermore!

—CHARLES BEARDSELY.

Here's Looking at You

By LOIS COLLINS PALMER

OLD Carmel houses again.—So many of them, built in the style which has been referred to as "glorified barn" architecture, have high, open ceilings. Have you noticed that after living in a house with such a ceiling, and visiting frequently in houses of that type, you have a sort of shut in feeling when you go into a room with a conventional flat ceiling? It is almost like crawling into a cave. Piano music, in such a room, tends to sound flat, and the overtones jangle.

Thought seems to flow better, and to have aspirational tendencies, in a room which rises to a peak instead of being chopped off, abrupt and square.

• • •

Due to the fact that many of the old houses were built by enthusiastic amateurs, who did not plan their space with the rigid and economical efficiency of professional builders, some of them are full of surprises. Faced by an unaccountable odd corner, or an empty space where wall and ceiling should have coincided, but didn't, the amateur builders either boarded them up hastily or left a book-shelf or closet in an unexpected place. So the old houses have a lack of logic which contributes to the indefinable quality of their charm. It keeps you on the qui vive for buried treasure, or lost maps or wills.

• • •

We had the surprise of our life the other day, in the particular "old Carmel" house which we have inhabited for over a year. It was the finding of a complete secret room, no less. At least ten feet long and five feet wide, and we had never suspected its existence. It has a door which we had looked at thousands of times without suspecting it was a door. It was absolutely empty except for some wires, showing that electricians, at least, had known of its existence. It is so placed that it can't very well be used, but it would be a swell place to hide a fugitive. Like the old castles we read about, with their "priest holes," left over from times of politically religious, or religiously political, unrest. There is a great deal of satisfaction in having a secret room in your house, even if you can't use it for anything.

POLITICS IN RELIEF

Stories are now appearing in the daily press confirming a disturbing rumor that WPA jobs are to go only to deserving Democrats. So far this refers to administrative jobs only; it has not yet been hinted that relief jobs are being withheld from destitute men and women who cannot prove that they vote the right way. This use of the spoils system to reward worthy party members with fat government jobs is nothing new, despite the high-minded efforts of a few good citizens and a few organizations for many years to outlaw such practice.

The spoils system in handling relief jobs is particularly obnoxious, and the revelation that such is the practise in California under the WPA may be valuable ammunition in the hands of organizations fostering the "merit system"; League of Women Voters take notice. According to the revelations of a San Francisco newspaper, applicants for administrative WPA jobs are asked to arm themselves with "letters from leading Democrats—testifying to the fact that you are sympathetic with the policies of the Administration and that an indorsement of you would meet with their approval."

Behind this there may be an honest effort to secure socially-minded people who would not sabotage the program because of inherent lack of sympathy with the work relief set-up. Hard-shelled reactionaries, it is granted, are not good people to put in the key positions of dispensing relief jobs. But in the hands of politicians there is grave danger of such ideals being overshadowed by the temptation to build a powerful political machine. No one has ever disproved the contention that Ray Branion lost his job as director of SERA, a little over a year ago, because he refused to allow the SERA to be made into a political machine, from top to bottom.

The temptation to play politics with relief is not a new thing. The editor of this paper saw a disgraceful attempt along this line in the old days of county welfare. Certain destitute applicants for county relief had enough spunk left to sign affidavits to the effect that they had been refused Red Cross flour and direct county relief because they refused to pledge their vote to a certain county supervisor. The woman who had charge of the branch welfare office was also manager of the supervisor's campaign in that district. Barefaced and flagrant as this was, there were those who thought she was rather clever to think up this system of vote-getting. She was refused a case-worker's job under SERA, but if her politics is right, it is conceivable that she, and others like her, may worm their way into the WPA program. People who have obtained their own jobs through politics may be tempted to put pressure on further down the line, on the relief clients. This presents possibilities a bit too dirty to contemplate with any degree of equanimity. It calls for explanation and if possible, extenuation, from Democrats to Democrats, as well as to Republicans who are only too eager to make political capital of it.

MORE HORRORS OF WAR

Among the horrors of war are the new and tongue-twisting names to be learned. Before Americans had ceased struggling for the proper accent on Ypres, Rheims, Chateau Thierry, Bellieu Wood; along came Manchukuo, Pu Yi, Jehol. And now, Dejazmatch, Nasibu, Jijiga, Diredawa, Ras Desta Demptu..

Fire Permits at Carmel Highlands

Official announcement was made today by Chief Tom Fisher of the Carmel Highlands fire district of authorization permitting two senior fire officers to issue fire permits to residents of that district.

Heretofore it has been necessary for property owners and their employees to obtain fire permits directly from Chief Fisher since he was the sole officer authorized to grant permission to burn slash, prunings and trash in the Highlands County Fire Protection District. For the further convenience of residents Chief Fisher has authorized First Assistant Chief John Eaton, whose telephone is 160-J, and Second Assistant Mark Tibbett, phone 1-J-1, to issue permits where, in their judgment burning may be done without endangering property.

Fire permits are required during the entire year in the Highlands district as is the case in municipal areas, due to the high property value and propety owners have been whole hearted in their willing cooperation. One immediate result has been a lower fire insurance rate. Another is the decrease in fires caused by careless mishandling of common trash fires.

It should be understood by persons applying for permits that a refusal on the part of the officer to whom application is made merely indicates his belief that conditions are not safe for burning and in no way reflects on the individual applicant. Further, should a fire permit be secured, the permittee is not relieved from civil liability in case of fire escaping his control and causing damage to property. A fire permit insures against criminal prosecution if the permittee complies strictly with all conditions stipulated on the permit. Escaping fire should be reported at once to "Carmel 350" the fire alarm board.

Chief Fisher will still issue fire permits on Wednesday evenings and week-ends.

Pacific Grove People at Endeavor Conclave

Before a capacity audience in Watsonville, "Andy" Stewart, state president of California Christian Endeavor, spoke "Observing the Quiet Hour." Miss Ruth Colridge of Pacific Grove, president of the county union, presided over the executive meeting which preceded Mr. Stewart's talk.

Those attending from Pacific Grove were Mrs. Wilfred Mack, Misses Ivy Watson, Kathleen Reese, Frances Baker, Norma Larkin, Margaret Orchard, Bernice McGill, Doris Cook, and Messrs. John Zimmerman, Bart Napoli, and Paul Taylor.

Bishop Porter Will Preach at All Saints

Bishop A. W. Noel Porter of the Episcopalian diocese of Sacramento, and old friend to many Carmelites, will preach the Thanksgiving Day sermon at All Saints church at 10:30 next Thursday morning, it was announced this week by Rev. Austin B. Chinn. The entire service will be devoted to a spirit of thanksgiving, with special music.

Community church will not hold service on Thanksgiving Day, but will give a Thanksgiving emphasis to next Sunday morning's worship service, according to Rev. Melvin C. Dorsett.

Week's Vacation for Sunset School

Thanksgiving was observed in all class rooms at Sunset school today, prior to the week's vacation which will be enjoyed all next week, with the teachers attending Institute sessions in Monterey and Pacific Grove for the first three days of the week. From the school comes a request to all parents to see that the pupils keep regular hours during the vacation. A week "off schedule" can result in great lowering of children's vitality, followed by colds and other minor ailments when school convenes again.

DOWN

AGAIN—Electric RATES DROP

Down they go! Beginning with your January bills electric rates will be reduced for home use, for commercial lighting and large industrial power, according to the amount of electricity used.

Down goes the cost of electric cooking and water heating, lighting, for washing machines and ironers, and for all the smaller uses, from the electric clocks to the doorbell transformers, to the percolator and toaster that get the daily breakfast. Electricity becomes cheaper, too, to every merchant, large or small, and in all office buildings for commercial lighting of windows, stores, counters, signs, etc.

It is important news and good news that this reduction will save Pacific Gas and Electric Company customers nearly $4,000,000 a year. It is unusual news in these days when general living costs are pushing higher and higher. Think of it! As shown in the chart above, the Cost of Living is UP 33.3% above the pre-war level. The cost of electricity with the new low rates is 35.4% below that level—and that means 68.7% below today's cost of living.

Establishing a record unmatched by any other item in the cost of living, the cost of electricity has steadily gone down since 1928. Successive rate reductions since that year show an accumulated total of $54,621,000—equivalent to an annual saving to customers of over $6,800,000.

Supervisors Asked to Re-open Historic Carmel-Toro Cutoff Road

MORE than 200 Carmel persons signed a petition which was presented to the county board of supervisors yesterday afternoon, asking the reopening of the historic Carmel-Toro cutoff, which was closed by the supervisors in February, 1934. Other signatures, from the peninsula communities and Carmel Valley, raised the total to impressive figures. This climaxes a long campaign for the reopening of the road which was closed, in the opinion of those fostering it, without good or sufficient reason. The road had been in use since 1871, is said to have required little upkeep, and offered to many Valley ranchers a more convenient outlet to Salinas, on the one hand, and to the peninsula, on the other, than the present Laurelles grade road which they are now obliged to use.

Carmel's interest in the opening of the road is based on its availability to equestrians as one of the nearest unpaved county roads, of great scenic beauty, and is also a neighborly gesture to the Valley people who need it for considerably more pressing reasons. Those ranchers who have keys and sufficient patience to unlock eight gates on the way out still have the privilege of using the road. But they want it reopened and maintained as a county road, as it was in times past.

To the petition is appended a statement by John L. Roberts, county supervisor from 1908 to 1928, who testifies "that the road surveyed and laid out by the county of Monterey in 1871 leading from the Carmel Valley road to the Corral de Tierra road or Toro road was built by the county at county expense and that a portion of this road was made on land purchased by the county for the road. The road has been kept up by the county except in a few instances when the farmers, under my directions, did minor repairs. The reason so little work was done on this road was because it did not need it. The road was made, in the main, on the dry side of the draw, hence did not get out of order as often as many roads in less naturally favored places. This canyon is the logical route from one road to the other. It is the shortest and easiest pull. I think it should be graded and set aside for the people forever."

The petition is worded as follows: "We the undersigned residents and freeholders of Road Districts Nos. 2 and 3 of Monterey county, respectfully petition your honorable body not to abandon or abolish the road surveyed in 1871 and established by order of the board of supervisors of Monterey county in 1872, leading from the Carmel Valley road to the Corral de Tierra or Toro road, running in a north-easterly direction from 'Braelles claim to Rosses claim.' We further petition you to remove all obstructions from said road and to keep it in a fit condition for the use of the public forever."

A considerable number of protests to the closing of the road were on file at the time the action was taken, according to those sponsoring the reopening.

Central Coast Counties Teachers to Banquet

One of tne gay dinners to be held during the Central Coast Counties Teachers' Institute at Monterey Nov. 25 to 27, will be that of the San Jose State College Alumni Association. Extensive plans have been worked out that will make this meeting one that will be greatly enjoyed by all who attend.

The dinner will be held Tuesday evening, Nov. 26, in the lounge of the San Carlos Hotel. Festivities will start at 6 o'clock. An interesting program has been planned for the evening which will include musical numbers and a favorite professor from the college as the speaker of the occasion.

Alton E. Scott, principal of the San Juan grammar school, is president of the association.

CHURCH DINNER TONIGHT

The Japanese Church of Christ will serve chicken dinner from 11:30 to 2 and 5 to 7 today. The public is invited. The church is located at the foot of Pearl street in Monterey.
